Community Development Director Elected To Leadership Position

In November, the American Academy of Certified Public Managers elected Community Development Director Dan Matthys to the role of Director of Education and Programming.

Dan will serve a two-year term starting in January. He will be responsible for all programming and educational opportunities to advance the messaging for the American Academy of Certified Public Managers.

Established in 1984, the AACPM is a trade association of public sector managers for the promotion of professionalism and ethical standards in public management.

Dan earned his Certified Public Manager credential in July 2004 from Florida State University.
